

Table of Contents

Introduction & Background

Executive Summary

About Green Meridian

Study Background

Objectives and Methodology

List of Figures

List of Tables

Overview of Household Cleaner and Personal Care Product Purchasing

Purchasing Frequency

Stated Importance of Product Features Affecting Brand Choice

Overview of Green Product Use, Awareness, and Perceptions

Proportion of Purchases That Are Green

Awareness of Specific Green Cleaner & Personal Care Product Brands

Perceptions of Green vs. Non-Green Products

Derived Importance of Product Features Affecting Green vs. Non-Green Choice

Stated Drivers of Green Product Use

Stated Barriers to Green Product Use

Differences among Green Usage Groups

How Women Were Assigned to Green Usage Groups

(Non-Greens, Moderate Greens, and Frequent Greens)

Demographics of Each Group

Stated Importance of Product Features Affecting Brand Choice

Stated Drivers of and Barriers to Green Product Use

Environmental Knowledge and Activities

Underlying Beliefs

- Political
- General environmental attitudes
- Beliefs about green movement
- Personal feelings about being green

- Attitudes towards green products in general
- Definition of “green product”

Influences on Green Beliefs

- Information sources
- Friends & family

Differences among Green Opportunity Groups

How Women Were Assigned to Opportunity Groups (Status Quo's and Green Aspirants)

Demographics of Each Group

Stated Importance of Product Features Affecting Brand Choice

Stated Drivers of and Barriers to Green Product Use

Environmental Knowledge and Activities

Underlying Beliefs

- Political
- General environmental attitudes
- Beliefs about green movement
- Personal feelings about being green
- Attitudes towards green products in general
- Definition of “green product”
- SPOTLIGHT: How Green Aspirants view green products

Influences on Green Beliefs

- Information sources
- Friends & family

Implications for Green Marketers

Targeting

Messaging

Communication Channels

Appendix

Quantitative Survey

In-depth Interview Discussion Guide